

NONFICTION BOOK
DISCUSSION GROUP:
I'LL BE GONE
IN THE DARK
BY MICHELLE MCNAMARA

Michelle McNamara

CRIME BLOG

<http://truecrimediary.com/index.cfm>

LA TIMES ARTICLE

<https://www.lamag.com/longform/in-the-footsteps-of-a-killer/>

Who helped complete the book:

PATTON OSWALT

stand-up comedian, actor and screenwriter, husband of Michelle McNamara.

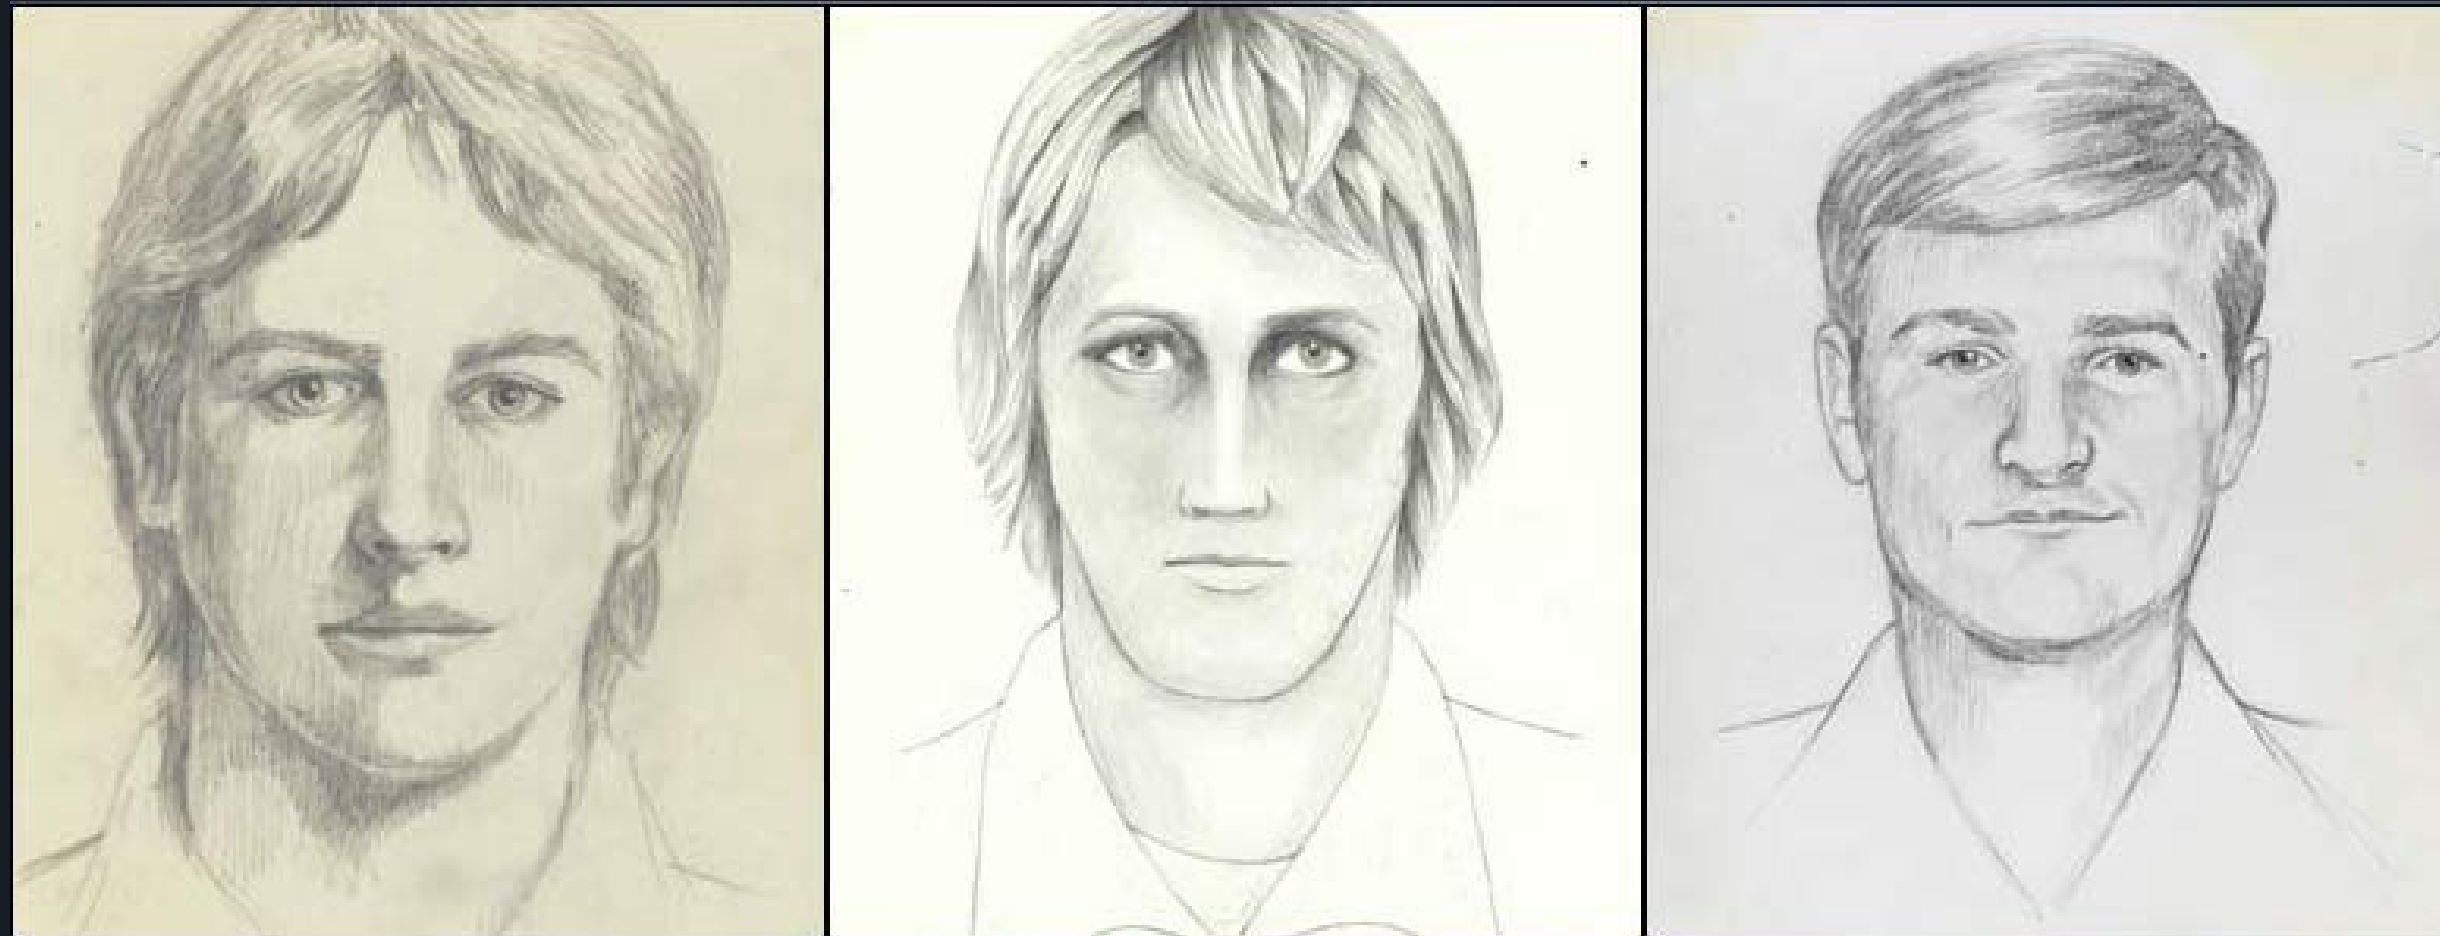

BILLY JENSEN

He has written crime stories for Rolling Stone, Los Angeles Magazine and the Long Island Press, and others.

PAUL HOLES

Paul Holes recently retired as a cold case investigator after spending more than 27 years working for the Sheriff and District Attorney's Offices in Contra Costa County, CA

Artist renderings based on victim accounts

Actual photo of Joseph Deagelo around the time of the attacks

Who was the "Golden State Killer?"

Joseph James DeAngelo

Joseph James DeAngelo has pleaded guilty to 26 charges in a raping and killing spree. He was ultimately charged with 13 counts of murder, with additional special circumstances, as well as 13 counts of kidnapping for robbery. Ultimately, he received 11 consecutive life sentences (plus an additional life sentence with eight more years tacked on) in August 2020.

Further reading, listening, and watching

Podcast (lighthearted):
Morbid, Episode 1

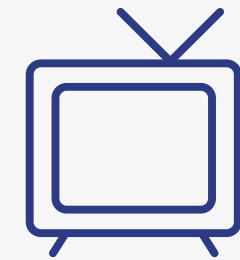

Book:
American Serial Killers:
The Deadliest Years
1950-2000
by Peter Vronsky

More about the GSK
Wikipedia
Joseph James DeAngelo

More true crime
If You Tell: A True Story of Murder, Family Secrets, and the Unbreakable Bond of Sisterhood
by Gregg Olsen

Watch:
HBO docuseries
I'll be Gone in the Dark